INTRODUCTION

The diversity of school life provides many sources of growth. It opens the doors to the pathways of life, and enables the student to realize the many opportunities that are open to him. In the excitement of basketball games, the responsibility of schoolwork and the joy of a few free minutes, the students of B.H.E.C. discover the path to individual fulfillment. Acquiring an education is not an easy task for anyone. It takes patience, desire, and a lot of work. Yet despite the tedium of study, there is a feeling of accomplishment when you type the last word of that term paper or pass that final exam with an A. For you realize that through knowledge we achieve progress and progress is the key work for the students and faculty of B.H.E.C.

Out of the primitive pathways of childhood,
over the rollicking hills of youth,
from each distant point of the compass
we come together — searching for truth.

Poised on the brink of life for a moment
we share a common space and time.
Yet by tomorrow our ways will be separate;
some descend quickly while others climb.

Whether to bright lights of fame and fortune,
or dark shadows of failure and grief,
toward deep valleys of soft blue illusion
some roads seem endless, others too brief.

Now we begin the construction of new routes,
gaily impatient to be on our way.
Leaving the obsolete paths abandoned
grown over with memories of yesterday.

Registration

The first two activities of the school year to take place were orientation and registration. Orientation consisted of a program to acquaint new students with the school, its faculty, and their future classmates. Following orientation the event of registration took its occurrence for both the new and old students planning to attend Black Hawk East. Both of these activities were very important in making the students feel at home, and for sophomores — back in the groove with school and B.H.C.E.

Mr. Fred Stahl

The dedication of this year's yearbook The Wahian is directed to an instructor at Black Hawk East whom the yearbook staff, the students, and the faculty feel deserving of the recognition. Mr. Stahl is a person who has proven himself as an asset to the student body, the school, and the community. He is a man interested in each person on an individual basis, and is one ready to lend a helping hand when the distress is sounded. To Mr. Stahl as a measure of our gratification for all he has done we dedicate this book.
